Listing of Claims:

1. – 5. (Canceled)

6. (New) A putter golf club comprising:

an essentially cylindrical head having a first lateral through bore placed substantially midways in the head;

a shaft insertable in the first bore, the shaft comprising a first portion insertable in the first bore in a direction that is lateral and substantially orthogonal in relation to the head, the shaft further comprising portions disposed at an angle one relative to the other, the portion furthest from the head being disposed to be in a position essentially parallel to the ground when the club is in a position of use, wherein a portion of the shaft furthest from the head supports a grip comprising a first and a second spheres of different diameters, wherein the second sphere is disposed between the first sphere and the head, and wherein the second sphere is configured for sliding along the portion of the shaft furthest from the head.

7. The golf club of claim 6, wherein the shaft is adjustable in the first bore to provide the club with different lengths.

8. The golf club of claim 6, wherein the head comprises a second lateral bore configured for engaging a fastener.

9. The golf club of claim 8, wherein the second lateral bore is positioned substantially midways in the head.

10. The golf club of claim 8, wherein the second lateral bore is threaded.

11. The golf club of claim 8, wherein the fastener is a screw.
12. The golf club of claim 6, wherein the head further comprises slots configured for the insertion of filling elements.
13. The golf club of claim 12, wherein the slots are disposed in symmetrical positions and essentially parallel to a longitudinal axis of the head.
14. The golf club of claim 12, wherein the filling elements are weights.
15. The golf club of claim 6, wherein the second sphere has a diameter larger than the first sphere.
